An Old Bible
Salmon No, Children No
He Joins the Senate
To Feed the World
By Arthur Brisbane

ABOUT A HUNDRED YEARS
AGO, in a Vermont log cabin, a young mother read to her children old Bible stories, about the whale that swallowed Jonah, wicked Pontius Pilate who washed his hands, Elijah and his chariot of fire, and the fig tree that withered under divine rebuke.

THAT MOTHER was poor and all her people were poor, and ours was a young and poor nation then, with fewer people, all told, than live now in the city of New York.

The old Bible from that log cabin, carefully wrapped up, was taken to the broad platform before the Capitol in Washington last Wednesday. With his hand on that Bible, Calvin Coolidge swore to do his duty as President of the United States. He is the grandson of the New England woman that owned the Bible, 100 years ago.

THIS IS the land of opportunity and growth. What will it be in years to come, if the 112,000,000 now here, work as hard and hopefully as men and women did in the days of Calvin Coolidge's grandmother?

THE SUPREME COURT decides that the game and fish act is constitutional. The national government therefore has power, where game and fish are concerned, to protect the interests of the people.

The Monterey Fish Products Company must now discontinue turning into fertilizer fish fit for human food.

WHAT ABOUT an act that would prevent exploiters of child labor turning young lives into dividends and grinding up children into profits? Just that worse than grinding good salmon into fertilizer?

THE SUPREME COURT is not able to uphold the constitutionality of an act to protect children, although certain so-called "radical" justices on that august bench did uphold it.

However, our highest court does find a way to protect fish and game. That's something. Protection for children may come later.

VICE-PRESIDENT DAWES did not disappoint his friends on his inaugural day. He "joins the Senate."

He will not be "King Lear" or let Senatorial frolic perch and croak on his back. Attacking the Senate rules, more sacred than the laws of Moses and Pericles, he denounces the "one-man filibuster."

This is gratifying to all that admire 100 per cent. red-blooded "he-men."

But it would be too bad to do away entirely with the filibuster.

The filibusters include many that have been useful to the world.

William Tell was one, Patrick Henry another, Mirabeau another, Horatius at the bridge another. Filibustering is only opposing with your own will and courage what you believe to be wrong. And besides, Boreas, Laertes, and others are also "he-men." They may not let General Dawes run the Senate.

IN TEXAS, between Quana and Stamford, the world's greatest potato beds have been discovered. It is a better grade of potato than the German potato. The same extinct monster found in the beds little dreamed how Providence was to make them useful.

With intensive cultivation, Texas could feed the entire population of the earth, now that greatest of states feeds the fertilizer for that cultivation.

THE WEATHER
Unsettled, probably rain tonight. Sunday partly cloudy; fresh northeast and north winds. High tide 8:16 a.m.; 8:40 p.m. Light air, vehicles before 6:30 p.m.

GOODWIN DECLARES COURTS DISGRACED

Speaking before the Massachusetts Council of Women today, State Senator Goodwin declared that the courts were disgraced by the trial of a woman charged with the murder of her husband.

Mr. Goodwin said that Sagansky pleaded guilty to being drunk when he was arrested on February 23, but insisted to stand guilty to the charge of operating while drunk.

"Notwithstanding this, he was today allowed to retract his plea of guilty to the drunkenness charge and acquitted on both counts," Goodwin continued.

BARRIED AS WITNESS.
The registrar charged that a few days ago in a case involving the alleged revivification of stolen automobiles by three defendants, he was not permitted to testify, although the evidence against the men was conclusive.

"They had admitted to me they saw the cars were stolen and that they made out false bills," he said. "That Judge Burke thought they ought to be acquitted. I was not called to the stand."

Registrar Goodwin asked the women to influence women jurors to appeal to the Governor to appoint a special commission to investigate conditions in the criminal courts of Suffolk, and bring about a "clean up."

The council meeting at which the registrar made his comment upon court procedure was a luncheon at the Hotel Westminster and well attended.

RICH LYNN MAN ACCUSES HIS WIFE IN DIVORCE COURT STORY

WINTHROP RESIDENT NAMED

Mrs. Lyndon V. Grover, Mother of Two Daughters, Hears Husband's Testimony

Salem, March 6.—The domestic troubles of Lyndon V. Grover, wealthy Lynn shoe manufacturer, and his wife, Eleanor C. Grover, formerly known to the stage as Lynette Cleveland, were aired in divorce court here today.

Grover is suing his wife for divorce, naming Paul A. Monte of Winthrop, while Mrs. Grover is seeking separate support.

Mrs. Grover, the mother of two daughters, one an actress in New York, was in court but Monte was absent.

The shoe man took the stand at the opening of court, and testified he is treasurer of the J. J. Grover's Sons Co., Lynn, incorporated for $1,000,000, and that he holds 1000 shares.

FOUND MAN MARRIED.
Grover said he receives a salary of $15,000 a year as treasurer, and also holds shares in the National City Bank of Lynn. He has a $40,000 home at No. 24 Kings Beach road, Lynn, and a farm at Casco, Me., valued at $25,000.

The couple were married January 25, 1919, following Grover's divorce from his second wife, his first having died. They went to live at his home with Mrs. Grover's two daughters by a previous marriage, Dorothy and Phyllis, and the four children of the shoe man.

Grover said he first became suspicious of Monte, who the latter started paying attention to his wife's face, and that she called in a physician for treatment. He said he did not think the blow was severe enough to require the services of a doctor. The following month he asked his wife to kiss and make up, the witness said.

In June, Grover testified, his wife went to the farm in Maine without his knowledge. He said he first learned of it when Monte dropped into the Grover home and announced he had just come from the farm.

The witness said he entertained Monte frequently both at his home and the club, but charged the other man being called his friend.

BULLET VICTIM HAD $200,000 INSURANCE
Tarrytown, N. Y., March 6.—Harry Lettner, wealthy wholesale meat dealer found dead on Broadway road with a bullet wound in the right temple, took out insurance policies totaling $200,000 recently, it was revealed by Coroner Snowden today.

Each contains a "suicide" clause, depriving his widow and two children of benefit if the corpse died before the policy was taken out, Mr. Snowden said. The coroner's early theory of murder has been somewhat broadened, he admitted today, by the finding of powder marks on Lettner's hat, indicating the shot was fired at close range.

MCCORMICK LEFT ALL HIS ESTATE TO WIDOW
Chicago, March 6 (A.P.).—Senator Medill McCormick left his entire estate of upwards of $1,000,000 to his widow, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, was named sole executrix and co-trustee with Vice President Charles G. Dawes. The will was filed today.

PIANO TECHNIQUE AMAZES HEARERS

Miss Rosita Escalona, fifteen-year-old Cuban girl, student of the New England Conservatory of Music, whose suddenly discovered musical ability is considered remarkable by her instructors. At the age of nine, Rosita had no interest in music. Later she suddenly found she could play by ear, selections she heard in the theatre. She recently played a difficult program at a recital of Boston University College of Liberal Arts.

Grover said he first became suspicious of Monte, who the latter started paying attention to his wife's face, and that she called in a physician for treatment. He said he did not think the blow was severe enough to require the services of a doctor. The following month he asked his wife to kiss and make up, the witness said.

ALARM BRINGS RIOT GUNS
Excitement and apprehension swept the State House today when the alarm system in the State Treasurer's office went wrong and bells began ringing in all parts of the building.

Armed with riot guns, State police from the Department of Public Safety went charging to the rescue. State House watchmen appeared upon the scene with revolvers drawn.

Attaches of the office were bewildered and had to be assured several times by the officials in the cashier's case that everything was all right.

The false alarm was the first indication of the existence of the new alarm system in the treasurer's office.

"It has been in existence only a short time," said State Treasurer William R. Youngman. "There are several buttons which can be touched off by any of several attaches and which will cause bells to ring in strategic parts of the State House, arousing watchmen and police."

EX-COP PLEADS GUILTY OF SLAYING WOMAN
Springfield, March 6.—Former Police Officer John H. Burns of Holyoke on trial in Superior Court for the murder of Mrs. Magdalena Milekoff, who he shot in her home in Holyoke in February, 1924, pleaded guilty to manslaughter today by agreement of counsel with District Attorney H. Wright. Testimony was introduced to show that Burns and a companion were intoxicated when they visited the Milekoff home in the early morning and demanded liquor.

WEALTHY MANUFACTURER ON TRIAL AS SLAYER
Toledo, March 6.—Two employees of Charles T. Davis, wealthy manufacturer, who is on trial for the murder of Detective Joseph J. Bridgette, testified that promptly after he had shot the detective, on February 15, 1923, Davis asked them to place whiskey in the dead man's mouth to give the impression that he was drinking.

Bridgette was killed in Davis' Brooklyn office when he went to inquire about an automobile supposed to have been stolen.

"Blue Sunday" Bill Beaten
Indianapolis, March 6.—The Indiana House killed a "blue Sunday" bill by a vote of 48 to 44. The bill, as sponsored by the Lord's Day Alliance and providing broad restrictions against Sunday amusements.

PRINCE GEORGE WILL UNDERGO OPERATION

London, March 6 (I.N.S.).—An operation was ordered today for Prince George, youngest son of King George, who has been suffering with a septic throat.

The term number of other notable Britainers who have been suffering from the attack of bronchitis and probably will start on his yacht trip shortly.

Former Premier Lloyd George is recovering from a minor illness but is not yet able to take his seat in Commons.

Lady Astor is expected to return to London next week after an enforced rest cure.

GIRL ACCUSES TWO MEN OF ATTACKS

One man was arrested today and another is sought in connection with an attack upon a nineteen-year-old Revere girl, lured to a house in Hills River street, West End, Sunday night.

The attack came in the notice of day is Ernest Carino, twenty-one years old, who lives at No. 28 Hills River street with his wife.

The man sought is a professional boxer. The girl said the missing man was a sailor and she went with him to the Carino home to visit. Carino was arrested today and held in $5,000 for a hearing on March 12, in defiance to the wishes of the girl, the Boston Evening American withholds her name.

Prizes for Jail Need in Auto Drunk Cases

Because every fifteen persons killed by automobiles in Massachusetts is killed by a drunken driver, the Automobile Legal Association offered three prizes today, totaling $175, for best statements on why drunken drivers must be given jail sentences.

Statements must not exceed 100 words, and will be judged by officials of the A. L. A. All statements must be mailed not later than midnight, April 25, addressed to Drunken Driver Contest, A. L. A., No. 108 Park Square Building.

SINGH PAID TO HIDE SECRETS OF RITES

London, March 6 (I.N.S.).—Sir Hari Singh of India was willing to pay $750,000 to hush up the affair with Mrs. Maude Robinson because it involved certain Mohammedan rites, according to testimony in the William Thibbs trial today.

Thibbs said that Sir Hari invited him to take a tour of the continent with him.

CHARLIE TOOK A DRINK; THEN HIT A COP!

Somebody is always picking on policemen.

Here Louis DiSessa, as peaceable officer as there is in the East Dedham street station, went into a Northampton street store, and right away someone swung on his chin.

What made it worse was the fact that the swinger was an absolute stranger to Louis.

Louis felt the injustice of the act keenly, even more than he felt the sock on the chin. So when he got up from the floor and dusted himself off, he proceeded to administer a lesson of politeness which culminated in the arrest of the pup.

The latter, Charles Saunders of No. 74 Tremont street, in Municipal Court today said it was all due to

Mrs. William Ladd-Orr Renews Many Old Friendships in Hub

Mrs. T. Jefferson Coolidge Reserves Table for Ten for Tonight's Junior Supper Dance at Copley-Plaza Hotel

By Betty Alden

MRS. WILLIAM LADD ORR, now in town as the house guest of her parents, Dr. John L. Ames and Mrs. Ames, is putting in a jolly two weeks renewing the friendships of her Constance Ames days—those but a short way in the background, by the way.

SHE WAS VERY CHIC in a simple black frock and small cascade-like chapeau when I saw her at Richard Platt's musicale earlier in the week. She came with her mother, Mrs. Ames, and the younger daughter of the house, Muriel Ames, one of the town's young musicians of much promise.

MRS. GEORGE STODDARD, in a black costume with ivory lace, and Mrs. Dwight Frost, also in black, were two nearly attired matrons in the musicale company which applauded most heartily Mrs. John Templeman Coolidge, Jr., and Balducci Ferrante.

A DELIGHTFUL PROGRAM with delightful artists, as everyone agreed, and many were the hearty congratulations flying about the head of Mr. Platt, who has a long record of pleasing musicales to his credit.

MRS. T. JEFFERSON COOLIDGE has taken a table for ten for tonight's Junior Supper Dance at the Copley-Plaza, and will play the hostess for her youthful kinwomen, Dorothy Winthrop and Nancy Fatten, of last year's debutante, and for Joan Patton of this year's set.

CONFERENCE RIPLY, the talented and charming daughter of Mrs. Billie Ripley, is to be a hostess this evening at a table for eight. Margaretta Govey, entertainer also for eight and Charlotte Kennedy for ten.

RUTH GREW, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wigglesworth Grew of Boston and Dover, has communicated a table for six. She is the fiancée of Richard Arnold Cutter of Salem, and I believe wedding bells are due to ring for the young people some time this spring.

MARTHA ROUSE has a table, and a trio of musical hosts are Charles H. Lohr, Jr., P. P. Bradford and P. L. Dunbar, the last named to have a group of twenty-two.

TED TABLE as which patronesses gather—as a rule at the head of the ballroom near the foot stairway—will have a jolly group, with Mrs. Harold Jefferson Coolidge as its leading light.

SHE, WITH Mrs. Richard Russell, Mrs. Hugh Scott, Mrs. Edwin Webster now in the South, Mrs. William Fatten (mother of Nancy and Joan Fatten mentioned above) and Mrs. James Lawrence—to name a few of the patronesses, have to their credit a most successful series of Junior dances, coinciding with tonight's affair.

DATES FOR NEXT season's Junior supper dances are not yet listed down on the Social Calendar, but soon will be, for it behooves factious matrons to make reservations thus early, as the Winter of 1925-26 is to be crowded indeed.

RONALD LYNAN, member of the Senior Supper Dances, already taken time by the forelock and has his dates for next winter quite definitely arranged. Which all means that there is a season in store of scintillating brilliance, outwitting almost anything gone before.

GETTIE BROWN, charmingly blonde and a highly decorative member of the "Junior" set, is to be a bridesmaid in the entourage attending Eleanor Merrill Ames when that Gotham Smart Set girl becomes Mrs. Robert Irwin Powell.

THE CEREMONIAL is set for the Pastor season, in the magnificent

MIDGET COUPLE TO WED IN BOSTON NEXT WEEK

An unusual marriage is expected to take place in Boston next week, the culmination of a romance between two of the group of Irving's Imperial Midgets, scheduled for a week's engagement at Loew's Orpheum Theatre next week.

The announcement of the impending marriage of the tiny couple is unusual, for it is known the Lilliputians have little interest in matrimony.

The exception, however, is Tony, smallest of the men of the troupe, and Hilda, premiere danseuse.

AUTOS ARE SOUGHT FOR MILTON POLICEMEN

The careers of five patrolmen on the Milton police force are likely to be cut short if the recommendation of the Warrent Committee to the selectmen is adopted. This committee stated in its report that the men would be better and more efficiently protected with a department of twenty-five men, properly equipped with automobiles and motorcycles, than it is now with thirty men without proper equipment.

HUNGARY WANTS GAG KEPT ON KAROLYI

New York, March 6.—Letters urging Hungarian priests and clergymen throughout the United States to sign a petition to Secretary of State Kellogg, asking him to continue the restrictions placed on Count Michael Karolyi by former Secretary Hughes, were mailed from New York today by supporters of the present Horthy Hungarian government.

BLIND ORGAN AND PIANO TEACHER DIES

Frank O'Brien, fifty years old, single, blind pianist and organist, well known in Cambridge as a teacher of both instruments was found dead last night in Room 101, No. 30 Huntington avenue, in the Back Bay district. Death was due to natural causes in the opinion of Medical Examiner Leary. His home was at No. 245 Broadway.

POLICE SIGNAL SYSTEM DEAD FOR TWO HOURS

The entire signal system of the Boston police department was out of commission for nearly two hours when a wire of the Suburban Gas and Electric Company came in contact with one of the police cables. The entire police system became charged with live current, and the switchboard at the station house burst into flames, also as a result of the short circuit.

BORGLUM AGRES ATTACHED IN $30,000 SUIT

Sculptor's Property Near Stanford Seized on Charge of Note Default

Stanford, Ct., March 6.—Approximately one hundred acres of property here owned by Gustav Borglum, the sculptor, has been attached for $30,000 in connection with a suit brought by David C. Stephenson of Indianapolis, Ind.

The action is returnable to the Superior Court for Fairfield County, Conn., on March 10, 1925, at 10 o'clock a. m. The suit is for $30,000, dated August 21, 1923, and the other for $5,000, dated October 13, 1923.

Mrs. Mary Borglum, wife of the sculptor, is named as joint maker of the notes.

CLERK DASHES IODINE FROM GIRL'S HAND

Somerville Bride's Suicide Attempt Frustrated in Drug Store

Mrs. Josephine Gertrude Chisholm, twenty-four, of No. 6 Leonard place, Somerville, purchased a bottle of iodine at the First drugstore, No. 133 Bedford street, Somerville, today, and, as the clerk looked on, attempted to drink the contents.

The clerk, George Hanson of No. 44 Wyatt street, Somerville, was too quick for her, however. Lungeing out from behind the soda fountain he snatched the bottle from her lips as she was about to drink.

The iodine stained her face and sprayed over her clothing, but very little entered her mouth. Then Hanson called Homeas Thomas Esq. of the Somerville fire department, who called the Somerville police ambulance, and Mrs. Chisholm, hysterical, was taken to the Somerville Hospital.

CRIPPLED YOUTH DIES; HURT IN LEAP OFF BUS

Suffering from a fractured skull which he received in front of his home on Monday last, Marco Deusero, eighteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Deusero, of No. 49 Sharon street, South End, died in City Hospital, Marco, who attended the school for crippled children on St. Botolph street, was riding home after school Monday afternoon in the bus which is employed carrying the children to and from the institution. When she had arrived in front of the Deusero home, Marco thinking it had stopped jumped out and fell. He was a member of Boy Scout troop No. 6, Boston area.

HINES SOON TO NAME PROVIDENCE DIRECTOR

Providence March 6.—A successor to Dr. English, who resigned as director of the central office of the Veterans' Bureau here, is expected to be appointed this week by General Hines. It is said General Hines has not made a selection as yet, but that the list of names under consideration has narrowed to a few. The general is handling the matter himself and is understood to have interviewed personally several of the candidates.

Gotham Landmark Burns
New York, March 6.—Fire today destroyed the old Douglas mansion on West Fourteenth street. Seventy-five years ago one of the finest residences in New York, the building afterwards was the home of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and then became a school and rooming house. In later days it had been used as a men's club by the Salvation Army.

MAINE INCOME TAX MEASURE IN HOUSE

Augusta, Me., March 6.—A resolve proposing an amendment to the constitution providing that the Legislature shall have power to lay and collect taxes on income from whatever source derived was introduced in the House today by Representative Howard H. Booday of Winthrop. Maine has no income tax.

ARMY ENTERS BALLOONS IN ELIMINATION RACE

Washington, March 6.—Secretary Weeks today authorized this army air service to enter two balloon teams in the national elimination balloon race which will be held at St. Joseph, Mo., about May 1. At this race three teams will be selected to represent the United States in the Gordon Bennett international balloon contest.

The two teams will go from the lighter-than-air school of the army service at Scott Field, Belleville, Ill.

To physicians she declared she was a bride of but two months and that she had intended suicide because her husband, Nicholas Chisholm, now of Billerica, had left her, breaking her heart.

Before her declared marriage, the bride was Josephine Gertrude Oulick of No. 6 Leonard place.

In the Somerville City Jail records disclose that the girl, with Chisholm, took out a marriage license last November 24, but not returning showing the marriage to have taken place has been made.

This is not an extraordinary happening, however, for many justices of the peace fail to make marriage returns for some time after having performed the marriage ceremony.

JOHN J. CURLEY, FLORIST, DIES AT ROXBURY HOME

John J. Curley, florist, is dead at his home, No. 49 Juniper street, Roxbury. Mr. Curley was fifty-five years old. Services will be held at St. Joseph's Church, Roxbury, at 1:30 p. m. Sunday, and the body will be laid to rest in Old Calvary Cemetery, West Roxbury. Mr. Curley leaves four sons and two daughters, his wife having died two years ago.

A PURCHASE OF TREMENDOUS PROPORTIONS BRINGS THE GREATEST PARLOR SUITE VALUES EVER OFFERED

Summerfield's

The story of this Spectacular Sale has a dramatic setting—one of the country's largest manufacturers, overproduced to an alarming extent, hard pressed by financial obligations not to be evaded—was compelled to convert stock into cash. It took the several combined Summerfield stores to swing the deal.

What store is there capable of staging a sale like this? None but this great Summerfield many-store organization! Who else would dare venture such a tremendously big purchase? Where else the resources to swing such a stupendous cash outlay? Where else the possibilities to dispose of such a mountain of merchandise? Where else, EVER such amazing values? Never, Never—NEVER!!!

It requires no elaborate description on our part, or vivid imagination on your part, to picture the scope of this sale. There are too many suites—too many varied styles, to give detailed description. You must SEE the wonderful assemblage to get any conception of how really stupendous is this sale.

Hotel Somerset SUNDAY, March 15

The annual Lenten tea and musical of the Properior Club will be given in the Louis XIV ballroom of the Hotel Somerset on Sunday, March 15. The musicals will be in charge of Miss Helen O'Connor of teachmont, supervisor of schools in the city of Rome.

The Honorable Judge John A. Blat-thorn of Newark, N. J., will be the guest of honor. Judge Matthews is a former Boston resident, and a graduate of St. Charles College, Baltimore, Md. He is one of the leading lawyers of the country, and was U. S. Commissioner under President Wilson. The club invites the public to attend, but the ticket sale is limited. Reservations should be made through Miss Gertrude Viano at the clubhouse.

The John Doyle O'Reilly Reading Circle will give for its members on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock, at the Copelandston Hotel, a lecture by Dr. James J. Walsh, LL.D., on "The World's Debt to the Catholic Church." Those who wish to attend may make reservations through Miss Viano. Reservations should be made through Miss Gertrude Viano at the clubhouse.

Through the kindness of Mrs. Emil Coulton of the Hotel Westminster, the annual doxennish night party to aid of the item for Institute Catholic Children will take place at that hotel on Friday, March 27. Every parish in the Boston archdiocese will be represented at this affair.

A Knights of Columbus club has just been organized at Boston College. The officers elected are: William E. O'Brien, 25, president; William H. Glavin, 25, secretary, and Edmund M. Langan, 28, treasurer. The club motto chosen is "K. C. for R. C. and R. C. for K. C."

The work of the Knights of Columbus for Boston College is well known, and with this activity in the college, greater and more notable things should be accomplished. The council is now formulating plans for a course of lectures, debates, entertainments and dances which will make membership in the order more than desirable. It is also planned to carry out a "Knights of Columbus Week" at the college in a short time, and an exemplification of the work and service of the council will take place within the next few months.

Boston College has also announced a new Greek lecture course, to which the public is invited to be given every Tuesday evening at 7:30, under the direction of the Rev. Joseph Mariga, S.J., at the Philomatheta Club House, Lake street, adjoining the college.

Prices Go Down As Big New Building Goes Up

When our new building is completed, the street floor will contain about 25,000 square feet, doubtless the largest showroom for the display of Home-Furnishings in the United States.

With us just now, it is not a question of getting more business, but of making more room for the builders. The prices quoted will convince anyone of our earnestness and of our determination to move vast stocks of Quality Merchandise quicker than they have ever moved in our fifty years in business.

An Expensive Living Room Suite Now Priced Within the Means of the Average Family

Here is a suite that will give lasting delight, comfort and satisfaction to every purchaser. The massive davenport for example, has 31 springs in seat, supported on wood slats with full spring edge construction, springs hand-tied eight ways. There are 23 springs in back supported and tied in the manner. Arms have special spring construction. It is equipped with three single face loose cushions, with inner spring construction beneath heavy layers of cotton—upholstered with low moss and cotton. Chairs similarly built. Covered with genuine Spanish leather. We don't care what it was made to sell for, but our selling price, while the liberal stock on hand lasts, is—

SPANISH POLICE ALLOW WOOD TO PROCEED

Madrid, March 5 (U.S.A.)—Lieutenant Osborne C. Wood, son of Major-General Leonard Wood, experienced fresh difficulties today in his effort to return to the United States. The Madrid police, without explanation, seized his passport with which he planned to sail on the shipping board freighter West Chester from Cadix for Tampa, Fla. The police interference made it doubtful whether he would be able to catch the boat, but when the passport was returned, just as it was seized, without any explanation, Wood planned to start for Cadix tonight.

Wood had been in the city less than an hour when police and detectives entered his room at the Hotel Nacional and demanded that he report to police headquarters immediately.

Wood went to the police station and showed his passport, which was taken from him. He was told to return at 7 o'clock in the evening, but when he did so the authorities told him his passport was not yet ready and ordered him to report again today when the document was restored.

Window Cleaners Go on Strike at Providence

Providence, March 5.—Providence window cleaners have thrown up the sponge and gone on strike.

Chief among the claims of the local branch of the domestic workers' union are a 48-hour week instead of the prevailing 40-hour schedule and double pay for Saturday afternoons and holidays.

It is a serious matter these men are engaged in, say the window-cleaning workers, and since they are taking all the chances they maintain they are due for a generous share of the profits.

Heretofore, assure the strikers among other things, if the plate-glass polishing houses want them to climb a three-story ladder, they'll have to provide a plump fellow at the foot of the ladder to act as a sort of fall-breaker; but should the weather above try to wipe off a glass too high for him and do a tumble.

Revolt Quelled in Lisbon
London, March 5.—An attempt was made by revolutionists to seize the military headquarters at Lisbon, Portugal, but the attack was repulsed by the military guard according to a dispatch received here today.

ELOPING SISTER AND BROTHER ARRESTED

Johnstown, Pa., March 5.—Stephen Raleigh, 19, and Helen Raleigh, 17, principals in a brother and sister marriage that took place Monday at Cumberland, Md., were arrested in a rooming house here and held by authorities pending a hearing today.

The arrest of the couple followed a search by police of several cities since word of their marriage was received by the father, Stephen Raleigh of Johnstown.

Questioned by police, the couple declared they had posed as first cousins and had given their names as "Stephen and Helen Raleigh." The girl told Police Chief C. E. Brady that she expected to give birth to a child within two months.

With the arrest of the couple, it was learned by police that Stephen had been born in Hungary and had first seen his sister in September, 1918, when he came to this country. The mother of the two children had returned to Hungary on a visit at the time Stephen was born. It was declared by the father, who is stated to police that the children were brother and sister. There are four other children in the Raleigh family.

BOSTON CRAFT FLOATED OFF CAPE SHOAL

The shipping board freighter Artigue, Boston bound from Baltimore, went aground today on Half Moon Shoal, between Pollock Rip and Nantuxet Island. She was refloated on the rising tide and proceeded to Boston unharmed.

The steamer was found to be unharmed and Captain Weston decided to proceed without waiting for the Coast Guard cutter Acushnet, which had been dispatched to assist the Artigue to come up.

Radio calls for assistance indicated the freighter was in immediate danger. It was feared the pounding of the vessel would loosen plates and start her leaking.

Messages from the freighter to the Acushnet were of such an urgent tone that the government boat, anchored at Woods Hole, made all possible speed to reach the stranded steamer.

The Artigue, a freight carrier of approximately 1,800 tons, is under charter to the Royal White Steamship Company of Boston, with offices on State street.

A partial cargo was taken aboard in Baltimore and Norfolk. The boat was reported 100 miles southwest of Gay Head, the southwest end of Martha's Vineyard, at noon yesterday and was proceeding to Boston on the outside course.

The first message from the Artigue was picked up by the Tropical Radio station on State street at 5:45 a. m.

"Am surrounded on Half Moon Shoals and need help," the message read. A few minutes later the Artigue established communication with the coast guard cutter which was anchored at Woods Hole. Captain Weston asked the Acushnet to come to his rescue immediately.

Members of the crew of the Acushnet were ashore, but they were rounded up as quickly as possible.

$4,810 JUDGMENT IS FILED AGAINST FRAZEE
New York, March 6.—A summary judgment for a bill of $4,810 worth of unremitted fines was demanded in Supreme Court against Harry H. Frazee, theatrical manager and former owner of the Boston Red Sox, by Charles and Margaret Foster, importers, No. 25 West Fifty-Seventh Street.

Just Frazee asserts that Frazee's wife, Mrs. Margaret C. Frazee, whom he married in December, 1923, after he was divorced by Mrs. Edna Frazee, ordered the linen and that Frazee refused to pay.

CLEMENCEAU BALKS AT CHURCH WEDDING OF KIN
Paris, March 6.—M. Clemenceau, active as ever and still anti-clerical, failed to attend the religious wedding of Miss Edmond Mordeau, daughter of General Mordeau, and Andre Balga, Clemenceau's great-nephew.

Clemenceau dislikes church affairs on principle. When General Mordeau asked him to come he agreed to be a witness at the City Hall, but remained.

"I never attend marriages or funerals. I will go to no funeral but my own, and there is not, thus, much ahead of me for marriage," he remarked.

He bailed himself out in $500 for appearance in court today. The alleged offense occurred February 17, Mrs. Margaret A. Connor, thirty years old, in the accused, she has been employed for some years in the selectmen's office across the hall from Bates' office.

NOVA SCOTIA COAL MEN TO GO ON STRIKE TONIGHT
Gloucester, N. S., March 6.—J. W. McLeod, president of the United Mine Workers of America in this district, reported to the British Empire Coal Corporation and the premier of Nova Scotia that a strike of coal miners throughout the province had been ordered by the union's executive committee, to begin at 11 o'clock tonight.

The strike order was followed by a general appeal for assistance from the country at large which said the miners' families were in a state of extreme destitution. The appeal was signed by Mr. McLeod.

New England Zionists received with profound regret the news of the death of S. Abel, of New York, director of the Jewish National Fund of America, pioneer in the Zionist movement and former editor of "The Yiddische Folk."

Eliza D. Rhea, president of the New England Region, has called upon the Zionists of this section to not saddle a date when memorial meetings for Mr. Abel may be held.

A Committee on sick has been added to the already long list of service committees of the Brotherhood of Temple Israel, Corner Franklin Avenue, at the meeting of the Board of Directors. The following members are appointed: Richard Pinkhas, chairman; Max Levenson, Simon C. W.

At the meeting of this association on March 11 in the vestry of the temple, Rev. Ernest Guthrie will be the speaker. He will be accompanied by a delegation from his church, the Union Church of Boston, The Temple Players, coached by Mrs. Philip H. Levine, will present the playlet, "The Pipers Play."

Dr. Guthrie will talk on, "I Was a Jew." To hear this distinguished speaker, the women of the congregation are invited.

Dr. Harry Levi of Temple Israel, Commonwealth Avenue, will address the members of the Harvard Law School and students of the university on "Judaism and the Law." Sunday night at the First Parish Church of Cambridge. This is one of a series of lectures on "Religion and the Law."

WIFE CHARGES HUSBAND WITH FRAUD IN MARRIAGE
New York, March 6.—Mrs. Joseph said her husband had claimed to be a Jew when he was really an Italian. Mrs. Rudolph Locantore, Brooklyn, hailed her spouse before Magistrate Albert H. Vitale in Tombs Court on a charge of perjury. She said that she was a Jewess and that she never would have married Locantore if she had not been led to believe he was of the same nationality as she.

According to the testimony, Locantore in filling out his marriage license on May 8, 1924, had set forth that he was the son of David and Sarah Herman, and that his parents were born in Russia. He courted his wife, who was Miss Fay Lander, for about six months but set after their marriage, she said, they never kept house.

NEW ROSE IS NAMED FOR MRS. COOLIDGE
Bloomington, Pa., March 6.—A new variety of rose, blooming for the first time in a local greenhouse, has been named Mrs. Calvin Coolidge rose. A bloom was sent here recently, a cutting made and the rose bush grown. The first bud burst on inauguration day, a strange coincidence. The name was applied before the bud burst.

HOUSE ROCKED BY EXPLOSION

RICH ORPHAN NOT MURDERED, SAYS GIRL

By BRUCE FORD.
Worcester, March 5.—Miss Signe Gustafson, girl stenographer of this city, who has been waiting four days to be interviewed by State Attorney Robert H. Crowe of Illinois relative to the death of William Nelson McClintock, "millionaire" orphan of Chicago, today declared that McClintock's fiancée, Isabelle Pope, was his brother, H. Kenyon Pope, to investigate her here on January 13.

Miss Gustafson said she frequently conversed with Miss Pope while employed as a second maid at the Chicago home of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Shepard, guardians and chief heirs to the McClintock millions. Miss Gustafson's name was taken into the death mystery, now under a triple inquiry in Chicago, by the testimony of a family friend, Mrs. Augusta Lundin of Evanston, Ill., who told the coroner's jury that Signe had received "a lot of money" from the Shepards to leave Chicago and remain silent.

Denies charges. In previous statements the young stenographer emphatically denied these accusations. She says she also got from Mrs. Shepard a small cash present for Christmas. She accepted the position, temporarily having gone to Chicago expecting a position as stenographer and bookkeeper, but kept it six months, because they were so nice to her.

"Miss Pope, in the talks we had at the Shepard home, never discussed with me her contemplated marriage to Billy McClintock, nor did Billy when he came into the kitchen to talk with Mrs. Crowe, maid, and me," added Miss Gustafson today.

"We girls heard that Billy and Isabelle Pope were to be married in February. We never heard the exact date. Billy died on December 13."

Plans not discussed. "I never heard Billy McClintock or Miss Pope discuss their marriage plans with Mr. or Mrs. Shepard. If the Shepards opposed the match they kept their feelings to themselves."

"I never noticed anything out of the way in the house. I never heard Mr. or Mrs. Shepard discussing money matters either before or after McClintock's death, nor planning what they would do after the funeral. They seemed much concerned over Billy's illness and spared no expense or energy to save him, in my judgment."

"When H. Kenyon Pope, Isabelle's brother called at my parents home here on January 13, he told me his sister had sent him to ask me questions which he had written on a card. He asked me about ruins and rabbits and whether Mr. Shepard kept them for experimental purposes in his home laboratory. I told him I had never seen any such animals in the house."

"The Shepards are innocent of any

WORKERS GIVEN BLAME FOR GAS BLAST

Alleged carelessness of electrical contractors in forgetting to restore gas distance in the bathroom of the home of Carl Magnuson, No. 1234 Vermont street, Everett, was responsible for the explosion which knocked Magnuson unconscious, police investigation revealed today.

Electricity was being substituted for gas in the three-family house, but according to the police there was no gas filter on the job.

The electrician employed by Contractor B. L. Ellis of No. 83 Hildale road, Medford, shut off the gas, cut off the connections and sealed them as they went along. These fixtures were restored and the gas turned on to determine if there were any leaks.

This procedure was not followed in the bathroom after the pipes had been cut, with the result that when the gas was turned on at a quarter meter it flooded the room.

Clothing on fire. Thomas P. Hancy of No. 400 Main street, Malden, in charge of the work in the absence of Ellis, apparently forgot to test the bathroom fixtures, according to the police.

In consequence when Magnuson, a sheet metal worker, whose right index finger had been amputated at the Massachusetts General Hospital, opened the bathroom door and lighted a match, an explosion resulted. It was Magnuson's twenty-first wedding anniversary, and one he will never forget.

The clothing was not afire, he was knocked unconscious, and the windows were blown out of the apartment. Instead of enjoying the anniversary celebration, he was sent back to the hospital.

Mrs. Denis Doman, who occupies the first floor, thought another earthquake had taken place and rushing to the street, sounded a fire alarm.

The police reported the results of their investigation to the State authorities.

Mrs. Magnuson and a son, Allen,

MATE IN 'ENOCH ARDEN' DIVORCE FACES ARREST

New York, March 6.—Supreme Court Justice Dixie of Brooklyn, who on Wednesday granted Mrs. Evelyn Nangle Parker an "Enoch Arden" decree of divorce from her husband, Dr. Herschel C. Parker, explorer and former Columbia University professor, has announced that the reappearance of Dr. Parker in Portland, Ore., will not affect the decree.

Justice Dixie said he believed Mrs. Parker could go to court and ask to have the decree set aside, if she wished, but that Dr. Parker could take no action toward dissolving the decree.

"His wife and two children are in need of his support," said Justice Dixie, "and I hope that some way may be found to get it for them."

Mrs. Parker's lawyer said that she would not seek to have the decree annulled.

"But if this is Professor Parker," said the attorney, "I will seek to have him indicted for abandonment. Five years ago he was ordered by the court to pay his wife $100 a week separation allowance. He has not paid one cent. He is in arrears about $3,600."

HOME MADE LIQUOR PROVES FATAL TO TWO

New York, March 6.—A man and woman, found dead today in a West Fifty-first street apartment, where it was said, a "party" was held, were killed by a combination of homemade liquor, a fall that fractured their skulls and coal gas escaping from the kitchen stove, said the report of Medical Examiner Charles Norris.

The dead are William R. Jackson, twenty-two years old, host to several persons who gathered at his apartment, and Mrs. Eliza Harris, one of the neighbors, who came in to sample the home-made liquor. The other guests survived the festivities without injuries.

PERSEVERANCE WINS X-WORD PRIZES

"If at first you don't succeed, try, try again."

The old adage is of as much value to crossword puzzle fans as anyone else.

Nobody cannot win on the same day, at least. Remember at all times that you are competing with thousands of other equally clever persons.

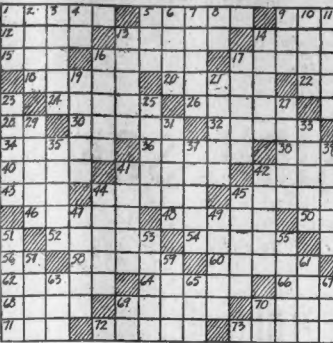

This point of view has been taken by Mildred H. Arce, who has reached the conclusion that the only way to get anywhere in this world is to keep persevering at it.

She writes: "My hope of eventually winning one of your prizes was renewed upon reading that a recent winner had sent in countless guesses before gaining her reward. So I shall keep on mailing my puzzles with the thought that the first hundred puzzles are the hardest. I've already sent you 'stet' and 'nec'. Yours with smiling perseverance." All right, Mildred, we're on the watch for No. 100.

To be sure to write the number of the puzzle on a corner of your envelope. It helps in sorting the mail, and, as we have thousands of letters daily, you can imagine how much a little detail like that will aid us.

SHADMAN SUES FIRST WIFE FOR $100,000

Forest Hills Doctor Charges She Alienated Affections of Second Wife

Dr. Alvino G. Shadman of the Forest Hills Hospital has entered a suit in the Superior Court of Suffolk County for $100,000 against his former wife, Grace D. Shadman, who he accuses of alienating the affections of his present wife, Louise Shadman.

Dr. Shadman's first wife was Grace Doyle, daughter of Alexander Doyle, a sculptor. They were married in New York on January 28, 1909, and on October 28, 1911, she was granted a divorce by Justice James Fox of the Superior Court.

Dr. Shadman's second marriage was in 1917. His bride was eighteen years of age and he nearly twenty years her senior. They have one child.

Mrs. Shadman has separated from her husband on two occasions, and finally brought a libel for divorce on the ground of cruel and unjust treatment. The case has been on trial for several days before Judge Trest of the Suffolk County Supreme Court, who has reserved decision.

CABARET MEN FACES COURT IN PADLOCK CASE

Buckner to Make New York
Cafe Owners Prove They Sold No Liquors

New York, March 5.—Deputy Federal marshals today served papers in padlock proceedings started by Henry R. Buckner, newly appointed U. S. District Attorney, against proprietors of 14 of New York's most famous cabarets and restaurants. Statements attributed to some of the proprietors that no liquor had been sold in their places of business brought from the Federal attorney a threat to have them charged with selling as well as with violation of the Volstead Act.

"I hope to bring those who make such statements into court, to swear whether or not they were correctly quoted," said Mr. Buckner. "I have charges of prohibition law violation."

Woman Hale at 101 Despite Slight Cold

South Byfield, March 5.—Although confined to her bed by a severe cold, Miss Ann Ambrose was quite sprightly as she greeted the intimate friends who called at her home here today to congratulate her on the occasion of her 101st birthday.

The lawyers referred to were argued by the Federal prosecutor to purchase cocktails, highballs and champagne at the places against which padlock proceedings are in progress. The evidence cost Mr. Buckner $1,000 and was paid for by him, personally. The defendants will have fourteen days in which to file answer to charges of prohibition law violation.

Department's Exhibit

Fortress Monroe, Va., March 4.—Only one member of Congress was on hand today to witness the opening of tests of anti-aircraft guns arranged by the War Department as a result of the bitter controversy which has raged in the House over the relative value of aircraft in war. Representative O'Brien of Connecticut, a member of the House Aircraft Committee, came from Washington by airplane, but his colleagues in the Senate and House who had been invited failed to put in an appearance.

MOVIE TICKETS WORTH $20 AS PRIZES

Extra Inducements to Contestants in American's Daily Limerick Race

Twenty dollars worth of tickets for next Wednesday evening's performance of "The Lost World" are of great value as prizes for best "last line" to today's limerick. These tickets will be given away in pairs. They are valued at $20 the pair.

"The Lost World" is a marvellous feature motion picture, now in its second month at Tremont Theatre, and the thousands of persons who have seen it are enthusiastic in their praise. It is a wonderful picture. There is no mistake about that. MAKE 'EM CLEVER.

Now go to it, fans. We want the best that you can make your "last line" as clever as you can because some of those who have received show prizes in the past have been under the best, so don't be frightened. Only thinking you cannot succeed.

Many first effort may win a prize of $20. And if you don't win today there are several prizes of $10 each, including the first of $1 each.

The 100 rules follow:
1.—Have the number of the limerick on the envelope for the War Department's exhibit.

2.—Be sure you have your daily contribution in before midnight of the 10th day of publication of the limerick race on the envelope.

3.—Be sure you have your daily contribution in before midnight of the 10th day of publication of the limerick race on the envelope.

4.—A condition of entry in the contest is that the contestants must abide by the decision of the judges as to winners as final.

UNSETTLED WEATHER TO PREVAIL TILL SUNDAY

The present variety of March weather is scheduled to continue for two days more according to local forecasters. Looking toward Sunday which was experienced in the region of the Great Lakes on Thursday and was due at Boston today, we find a cold wave which will bring a temperature of 30 below on Thursday.
The rains which have been experiencing extend North to a point of St. Lawrence and south to Cape Hatteras. Tuesday night and we'll probably continue here until Sunday.

SOX REGULARS AND YANKEES MEET IN FIRST TILT TODAY

ROOKIES AND REGULARS MEET

MEET BABE RUTH, 2D!
HE'S A YANKEE, TOO!

By FRED G. LANE.
New Orleans, La., March 6.—The baseball season will be officially opened in this suburb this afternoon when Manager Lee Fohl divides his squad of Red Sox regulars and rookies into two nines for the first game of the Yammigan series, in preparation for the Sox encounter with Larry Gilbert's Pelicans, Sunday.

The regular lineup for the opener will not look much like the Red Sox of the past, but it will be a surprise to the fans in this suburb who have followed the Sox since they were founded in 1866. Fohl will serve Fohl with certain information to be made regarding the ability of certain rookies.

At least three players on the first team today will watch the first league combat from the bench.

Joe Harris is listed to play his first game at the initial match on the first team. There was some talk of Toot handling the amusement but if Joe continues to crack the bat about and play his position as he has for the past few days, Toot will be in due to spend much time on the bench.

Brooks Vacha, who is hitting in fifth position on the regulars, has made a great impression by his slugger and seems destined to start the campaign in left.

Clifford H. De Mar of Melrose, three times winner of the B. A. A. marathon and America's chief long-distance representative in the last Olympics, was one of the first four to enter the 12th Union square, according to an announcement today of Athletic Manager Tom Kearney of the Eastern street.

Three other entries, Add Duvernois, Wells Memorial, Christopher Bole, and George P. Adams, Boston T. M. C. A., were expected by Kearney.

Los Angeles, March 6.—Jack Kearney, manager for the University of California, has announced that consideration was being given a proposal by A. E. Sawyer, a Hollywood promoter, to stage a title match June 9 between the champion of the Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul heavyweight, for a consideration of $100,000.

Sawyer said he offered Kearney the sum for a 10-round title match with Tompkins in a fight in Los Angeles, which has said may contract, to seat 150,000 persons, with possible gate receipts of $1,200,000.

The fans called them the "Heavenly Twins" probably because they so often proved to be angels in pulling Boston's teams through light shoves by brilliant pieces of baseball work that he had to win the National League pennants in 1932 and 1933. But to say they were two Boston boys, Hughes, Duffy and Tommy McCarthy, again brought together on the same team when they became members of the home club in '33 for they had both been with the "Hoosiers" of the Boston Red Sox.

After the breakup of the Brotherhood in 1931, Duffy was made captain of the Boston American Legion baseball team, which won the pennant in that year while McCarthy was in the army. He was with Philadelphia of the Boston Commercial Baseball Association, but in 1934, when he joined the St. Louis Browns, with which he had previously been playing.

McCarthy and Duffy, the "Heavenly Twins," Will Ever Live in Memory of Old Baseball Fans

This is the forty-fifth of a series of articles on old-time athletes by George V. Tuohy, former sports reporter, who has been prominent in athletics for thirty-five years.

The fans called them the "Heavenly Twins" probably because they so often proved to be angels in pulling Boston's teams through light shoves by brilliant pieces of baseball work that he had to win the National League pennants in 1932 and 1933. But to say they were two Boston boys, Hughes, Duffy and Tommy McCarthy, again brought together on the same team when they became members of the home club in '33 for they had both been with the "Hoosiers" of the Boston Red Sox.

After the breakup of the Brotherhood in 1931, Duffy was made captain of the Boston American Legion baseball team, which won the pennant in that year while McCarthy was in the army. He was with Philadelphia of the Boston Commercial Baseball Association, but in 1934, when he joined the St. Louis Browns, with which he had previously been playing.

DAILY SHORT STORY

MISS EDWINA BUTTERWORTH looked at the mantel clock with malicious, heavy-lidded eyes. It was exactly three minutes past mid night and three hours past her bed time.

The day at the office had been peculiarly hard, tomorrow from used to be equally exhausting, and Miss Edwina needed every scrap of strength to pull her through. The odds she prided herself on coming to work promptly at eight-thirty, quite refreshed, ready for work. She rehearsed what she would tell her niece, Lola, when she finally arrived. She would not be imposed upon like this man, even if it spoiled forever the intimate, friendly relationship that existed between herself and Lola.

Auto Arrives.

Just as Miss Edwina struck upon a particularly serene remark, the "clutter" was sent by a belated note, a conglomeration of shrill girlish voices and deep masculine tones, the ringing of an engine and the beating of automobile doors and much uncontrolled laughter. A few minutes later the apartment door buzzed round and Miss Edwina with thin, tight lips rose to answer.

Two girls burst into the hall, the younger and prettier flinging herself violently against Miss Edwina in a choking embrace. "We're a little late—oh, we had the best time and the game this afternoon was wonderful! Meet Betty, my latest chum! Betty, the nicest aunt ever made!" The boys were gone out to a hotel and will call for us in the morning. Darling of you to have us overnight—otherwise we had had to go home the afternoon and missed the show. We're not putting you out, Aunt Ed."

Miss Edwina beamed. "Why, Lola, this is a treat for me! Scramble into the living-room and I'll set the cook out. I have those date sandwiches you love, Lola."

They squealed in delight and scampered off, chattering into the living-room. Miss Edwina, chucking, disappeared into the kitchenette. It was late when Miss Edwina crumpled into bed. With a weary, resigned sigh, she was about to put the cord of her bedside lamp, when the door opened softly and Lola peeped in.

"Aunt Ed," she asked gently, and trotted over to the bed. "I can't, I've something on my mind." She squatted on the bed, hugging her knees.

Helped Her Out.

What was visible of Miss Edwina's, sleep-woman eyes smiled encouragingly. "Tell me, Lola, I've always helped you out."

Lola needed no second invitation to unburden herself. "You see, I'm this—must come to a decision and I have—almost. It's Jerry King, he wants me to marry him and I'm supposed to give him my answer tomorrow. Betty is going back with the boys alone and I'm going to meet Jerry here tomorrow night. He's coming for his answer. I've known Jerry for ages and he's awfully nice and Mother and Dad are just the whether she had ever met him or not. And the note which she was bound to deliver, worried her. The more she thought of Jerry and Mat and Lola, the more conscience-stricken she became. By the time she came home she was talking to herself, pacing the floor.

"What a miserable selfish specimen of a woman you are, Edwina Butterworth! All you thought of last night was sleep! Sleep and being fresh for work when Lola's happiness was at stake! If you had stopped thinking of yourself, you could have seen clearly last night what kind of a husband Jerry will turn into! He's going to live and die for his business. He'll give his wife every thing but companionship. I know the kind. They work holidays and their wives sit home darning socks, watching the neighbors snort out for their holiday happiness. And that terrible truthfulness will grow stronger every year."

"When the days come that my poor little Lola won't feel very well, Jerry will tell her the truth, that she looks kind of mallow and haggard, had when she waits in breath-taking expectancy as he bites into her first baked cake, he'll tell her truthfully that she's wasted good materials, the cake isn't fit to eat. Lola, I've failed you. What shall I do?"

In Familiar Embrace

Miss Edwina moaned in despair. "She was trying to tell me that she liked to be with Mat, that he made her happy and I was too sleepy to listen!" And there lay the note which she must deliver.

Three Minute Journeys

By Temple Manning

It was the Emperor Shi Hwan-wei who conceived the idea 1,000 years ago, of building a wall across his entire country, regardless of mountains and valleys, to protect his borders from his invaders. It took centuries and centuries to complete this mighty project, and there can be no reckoning of the thousands of men who lost their lives in the building of it. Progenitors of war and criminals did most of the work on it. And the result is a phenomenal accomplishment that remains the pyramide.

During the Middle Ages the wall was required in spots and portions were built along it, for the Emperors realized that here was one of the greatest defenses in time of war that any country could have. It was built in spots of almost impossible obstacles, for the country through which it runs is desolate and wild. It winds its way across the country like a huge snake and sometimes have said that if the inhabitants of Mars could view the earth through a huge telescope the only piece of backbone of the earth that would be visible to them would be the

CHILD'S SELF CONTROL

By Carolyn Lieberge, Lecturer and Writer on the Raising of Children.

IT is a coincidence that two people came to me recently with the same complaint about children in different homes. One of these was a cook applying for a job.

"YOU are you leaving your last place?" I asked her.

"Because I don't like the way I am treated by the sixteen-year-old daughter," was her answer. "She stamps her foot at me."

An hour afterward I heard a French teacher complain about a boy pupil of seven. "He pays no attention. I say to him, 'You may stop, the page for your lesson and I want to see you learn.' Then he says he hates French—and stamps his foot at me."

It is no doubt because the mother of a small child to see him stamp his foot when given an order that discipline. But once she has permitted the child to think he can use this gesture whenever annoyed, the first breach in the youngster's self-control has been made.

A successful educator advises us in our effort to break the habit often formed by the child of expressing anger by pushing the offending object away or kicking or striking or foot-stomping. Let us use caution in the time allotted to striking or kicking. Let us use caution in the time allotted to striking or kicking. Let us use caution in the time allotted to striking or kicking.

Croup Relieved Without Dosing

Too much dosing is harmful to a child's delicate stomach. Often it lays the foundation for ill health in later life.

The next time a child seems croupy in the evening apply Vicks over throat and chest and cover with a warm flannel cloth. Leave the child in bed. This usually prevents a night attack.

If croup comes on without warning an application of Vicks usually brings relief in 15 minutes.

Vicks can be applied freely and often, even on the youngest child with perfect safety.

Famine Which Now Threatens Ireland Not So Dangerous as in the Past

A large section of Ireland is in danger of famine

Of all the countries in Europe, Ireland probably has suffered most from famine. Food was shipped out of the country to get money to pay rent to landlords that lived in England. People came to depend on the potato crop for their very lives. And when THAT crop failed, thousands died of starvation.

Now, with Ireland under Irish instead of English rule, famine again threatens the country. The danger, fortunately, is not as great as it has been in times past. And the Irish government, being able to borrow money and GET money, will undoubtedly prove its capacity to govern by fighting the famine with food.

It is a strange thing, proving men's blind selfishness and indifference to the welfare of their brothers, that there should ever be starvation in any part of the earth now.

Under intensive cultivation the State of Texas alone could produce enough to feed the entire population of the earth.

Ireland will still have her troubles under self-government. But as Bernard Shaw, born in Ireland, truly says, Ireland can bear her troubles in taxes and other ways as long as the taxation is IRISH taxation and not British taxation.

A little intelligence, a little less indifference on the part of the prosperous toward those that are in misery, would make all fear of famine a thing of the past all over the world. This country could feed the whole world. Russia alone, with the proper cultivation and agricultural machinery, could feed the whole world.

The only question is: Do famine and other disasters still play a useful part on the earth?

Are famine, war and disease still necessary TO MAKE HUMAN BEINGS THINK?

If our troubles were done away with, if anxiety about old age and want and fear were removed, would the human race sink into indifference and an end of progress?

We know about the people on the islands of the Pacific, where nature supplied all their wants, where they could pick their food from the trees, and needed no clothes on account of climate. We know that these people never made any progress, never amounted to anything.

And the strange part is that in spite of all that nature had done for them, BLOODY ORUGUE ruled among them. It was in those "blessed islands of the Pacific" that the ruling monarch, to amuse himself and earn the title of "The Great Shark Killer," would go out to fish, using on his hook A LIVING MAN OR CHILD FOR BAIT.

That's worse than anything any English landlord ever did in Ireland.

Human beings are queer creatures, having looked up in them apparently all the good and bad qualities of all the animals, from the ambition of the horse and the friendship of a dog to the ferocity of a tiger. But we are improving.

Coolidge Stands Firm on Preparedness

President Coolidge's inaugural address was heard by millions of his fellow citizens, the greatest audience that ever listened to their chief magistrate.

It was a sane but lofty declaration of the philosophy of our government and an assuring and inspiring review of conditions.

His declaration that we can "best serve our own country and most successfully discharge our obligations to humanity by continuing to be openly and candidly, intensely and scrupulously American" will be gratefully received by his fellow citizens as a guarantee of that independent nationality for which they declared by overwhelming vote.

The President's stand for preparedness was worthy of the occasion and voiced a keen appreciation of the needs of the national defense.

He said: "Our country represents nothing but peaceful intentions toward all the earth, but it ought not to fail to maintain such a military force as comports with the dignity and security of a great people. It ought to be a balanced force, intensely modern, capable of defence by sea and land, beneath the surface and in the air."

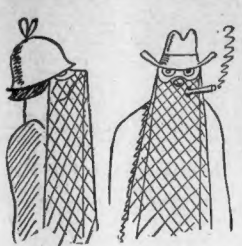

This appreciation of the imperative demand for an adequate air force proves that the President is alive to the fact that the dogs of war have been succeeded by the eagles of war, and that every other first-class power has made or is making making the change.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

"ETERNAL LOVE" in these days is the kind that lasts until the next girl interrupts you.

Somewhere a man never starts talking about the charms of platonic friendship until after the third kiss.

Apparently the average man turns over a leaf just in order to see how much space there is on the other side for making a fresh lot of blots and splashes.

A man always wonders why he never discovered how argumentsative a woman was until after he married her—but what girl is going to ARGUE with a man, as long as he's telling her how beautiful, how wonderful, or how fascinating she is?

A man who has just escaped from a foolish flirtation or disintegrated himself from a dangerous love affair has the same dizzy feeling of relief and thankfulness as the man who has just reached the sidewalk after being grazed by a taxi.

No tire was ever punctured in front of a garage—and no girl ever happened by chance to run into the "one man in the world" at the psychological moment when her nose was freshly powdered and she had on her best morning hair.

Every girl might WANT to be the sweet, modest, high-minded creature that men say they admire. If she doesn't suspect that she would get fearfully tired of holding out her hand with one hand while she waited for some man to come along and hold the other hand.

Nowadays a girl can spend six months in an intensive sentimental correspondence, and have only a few telegrams and postcards to show for it to her grandchildren.

Mrs. M. R. would like a pair of shoes, size 1, stockings and suit for boy 7.

For herself, size 3. Would like a job from 5 until 11 at night.

Mrs. H. L. (hairdresser), mother of five, husband makes small wages, would like a carriage so she could put her baby out in the fresh air.

Mrs. F. R., a widow with no one to support her, needs coat and other clothing, size 42, so she can go out to work. Is handy with needle.

Mrs. I. F., widow, would like a sewing machine someone has discarded, also would like a young woman who works around 28 or 30 years of age, to have a home with her, someone who is lonely like herself and would be a companion.

Mrs. K. would like to adopt a baby boy at birth or shortly after. Can give a good, clean, happy home, and the care of a trained nurse.

Mrs. L. G. T., sole support of her feeble-minded sister and children, would like clothes for her, size 32 and for boy 13, and for girl 12. Also for herself, size 42 or 44.

Mrs. R. W., I would like a coat and dress, size 32, also a furnished mattress. Is a poor widow.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Turn Up Streets.

Editor Boston Evening American: Every once in a while in the editorial columns of your paper you launch a crusade for some betterment in city, state or government affairs. May I call your attention to the broken up streets? If you start from the office of the Boston American, go in any direction for a distance of four or five blocks, you will run across some street that has been recently paved and which today is covered with scars from excavations made since the new pavement was laid.

Only last year Kingston street was paved from Bedford to Essex. Look at it today. Deep scars running crosswise and lengthwise where the pavement hasn't even been temporarily relaid, nothing but a dirt hole.

Harvard avenue was paved last Fall and within one month the street was thrown open for two blocks, right in the center. Look at it today up around Essex street. Eldest street, Eldest street, Washington street, practically every street that was paved within a year, is today mutilated.

Now, in most cities there is a very stringent rule that no public utility, water company or city department shall tear up a new pavement under any consideration for three years after the pavement has been laid. Of course these companies and city departments are given ample notice before the new pavement is put down so that any improvements or changes in water pipes, sewer pipes, gas pipes or telephone conduits can be made. It seems absurd that present conditions are allowed to prevail in a city this size.

It is the duty of the city.

THE BEST VIRTUE IS UNCONSCIOUS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THE best virtue is unconscious. When we do a good deed and expect a reward for it and call for people to come and look at it, or even regard it ourselves with complacency, its quality has been somewhat diluted.

Honesty may be the best policy, but the man who is honest because it is the best policy is not quite honest. We do not know whether he would be honest with himself when he is alone or not.

The right manner of doing good has been described by Marcus Aurelius. He says that a man who does good in the best manner, "does not even know what he has done, but he is like a vine which has produced grapes and seeks for nothing more after it has once produced its proper fruit. As a horse when he has run, a dog when he has caught his game, a bee when it has made its honey, so a man, when he has done a good act, does not call for others to come and see, but goes on to another act, as a vine goes on to again produce grapes in its season."

Virtue is so sublime and wonderful that it need no ad vantageous aids. It is for this reason that a man cannot be paid for doing good, and while virtue has great value it has no price.

The only way to do go is because you cannot help it, because your nature is such that you produce only good. This is the goodness of the good.

The goodness of the bad is something that is put on for occasion. It is borrowed and artificial and does not have the effect of goodness that is real and genuine.

There is only one way to do good all of the time, and that is to be a good man. When one automatically rejects evil impulses and responds to those which are good, when his every act is prompted by a worthy motive, such a man has a right to estimate himself as good although he probably does not think of it.

The only way to be of benefit to your fellows is to be of such a character that you unconsciously produce that which is helpful and beneficial to them.

All goodness that is conscious is of value only as it trains us for the unconscious kind.

This is probably what is meant when it is said that for every idle word a man speaks he shall give account in the day of judgment. For what we speak of purpose no man can say, but what we speak with no purpose at all, and from pure idleness, is a revelation of what we are, ourselves.

As Marcus Aurelius says further: "Art thou not content that thou hast done something comfortable to thy nature, and dost thou seek to be paid for it, just as if the eye demanded a recompense for walking?"

The only really good man is therefore one who is good for the pleasure of it. Virtue is indeed its only reward, just as the eye is happiest when seeing, or the feet when walking.

This is not to be taken as an attempt to minimize the benefit of trying to do something which you are convinced is right but to which you are not disposed. For it is only by a constant attempt to do good that the desire to do good becomes automatic. A good disposition, you may say, is the silt of good deeds. It is the result of having done good over and over.

It is said in Holy Writ that "Whosoever will do these sayings of mine, he shall be likened to a man who builds his house upon a rock." This does not mean that the sayings are a rock, nor that the Master Himself is a rock, but that which is the rock is the fact of one having long practiced doing good. Character rests upon practice.

But the end is attained only when practice has been continued so long that it becomes automatic, that it has, so to speak, drifted down into the desires and becomes unconscious. It is for this reason that the best quality of goodness is unconscious. Indeed, the aim and end of all goodness is to be unconscious, and the Master Himself is the most worthy characters and the most dependable are the most unconscious of their virtue.

MYSTERIES OF WEIGHT AND GRAVITATION

By Garrett P. Servis

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

Interest.

A YOUNG man from high school, working with me, and stubborn to have his own way, argued one day that a weight, or a ship, sinking into the sea would become lighter as it continued sinking, and that an airship or balloon going aloft would become heavier as it continued rising. I argued that anything sinking into the sea, or into the depths of the earth, would become heavier, while anything rising would become lighter, and that the laws of gravitation. Please enlighten us on this rather strange subject.—G. C. B.

YOU are entirely right in your confidence in the law of gravitation.

The farther a body is from the center of the earth's gravitation the less it will weigh. But it is not, only since the body is submerged the distributed by pressure in all directions through the water. But if this submerged body was the base of your gravitation, it is in a sense lighter, as it would be supposed to work just the other way in the air.

The reason for this decrease of weight or gravity below a certain depth in the globe is that, by the law of gravitation, the weight of the body the material contained in the sphere of the earth's gravitation is the level of force toward the center.

Consequently, as the center is approached, the attractive mass decreases. If the distance from the center was perfectly uniform the decrease of gravity would begin at the first descent below the surface.

But outside the earth, i. e., above its surface, there is no exception to the law that the weight decreases with increase of height or distance from the centre. But the decrease is small for all distances attainable by man.

Thus, at a height of ten miles, the loss of weight would be only one fortieth, or a body weighing 1,000 pounds would become heavier as it continued rising. I argued that anything sinking into the sea, or into the depths of the earth, would become heavier, while anything rising would become lighter, and that the laws of gravitation. Please enlighten us on this rather strange subject.—G. C. B.

WHO IN THE cold East
will believe this?
You drive from Los Angeles to Hollywood, here in Southern California, and along the road are wagons filled with yellow, ripe oranges, with signs that read, "Six dozen oranges for twenty-five cents."
And that is not a misprint.
You buy a dozen oranges for five cents, six dozen for a quarter.

WHO IN FLORIDA or California will find a way to squeeze out, transport and deliver to homes in the North pure orange juice, with the vitamins in good working order?

The steel monopolies may arrange that. The dashing young man will have his orange juice route, instead of his milk route.
A thousand pounds of orange juice would supply many families.

AS INTERESTING as the price of oranges are stories of moving picture success, and humble starting. For instance, take Miss Norma Talmadge, in real life Mrs. Joseph Schenck.
Now she is all dressed in flax sweat, knitted green and gold silk, held together like look better,
with big diamonds.
No butterfly could look better.
How did she begin? She tells you.

IT'S A SIMPLE STORY that gave me my first moving picture chance. I was discovered kinsing a man, under a photographer's black cloth, the kind they use to cover a country camera.
"An intelligent trained horse lined up the cloth with his teeth and revealed me."
"Was I the star of that picture?" No, the horse was the star, and had his name in big letters. I was not mentioned, but I got three dollars a day, and my lunch.
"And it was a start, which is all anybody can ask for."

NOW MISS TALMADGE is paid ten times as much as the people pay their President, and the horse is no longer the star in her picture. "From long calm to White House" is, financially speaking, child in comparison with movie success—sometimes.

BUT, YOUNG LADIES on
barns and in small cities,
do not come crowding to Hollywood, unless you bring money enough to last for three months, at least, plus enough to take you home again. Of 100 that come, not more than 10 even secure places as supernumeraries, at two or three dollars a day. Many bitter disappointments and sad stories are here.

Success is hard, always, and harder in moving pictures than in other work. Merely being pretty, and ambitious, with curly hair, is not enough.

PARIS RULERS of fashion say to women, all over the world:

"Wear your skirts above your knees, and paint your ears red."
And the pathetic fact is that millions of women will wear skirts
so short as to be silly, and paint their ears without loss of time.
Also the eyelids are to be stained dark brown or blue, the eyebrows curled, and the tassets of the notrils stained bright red.

THE SHORT SKIRT, in reason, is sensible, a step toward common sense and away from microbes. Red ears, with natural, indicate good blood circulation. But for women to wear skirts that would look foolish on a child, paint artificial beauty on their ears, curl their lashes and color their eyelids, that seems too much. However, back of it all there is divine vitality, undoubtedly. Woman is on her way to some grand destiny. Let us observe and admire, but not criticize.

THREAT TO COURT MARTIAL MITCHELL

Lone Wolf Suspect Captured

"RING OF WILDS." DEMPOSET CHIEFS

'I'LL FIGHT HIM,' SAYS JACK; READY ALSO TO BATTLE GIBBONS

Los Angeles, March 7.—Neither Jack Dempsey, heavy-weight champion, nor his manager, Jack Kearns, was a bit excited today at the demand of the New York Boxing Commission that Dempsey reply to the challenge filed with that body by Harry Wills, negro.

"I'll fight Wills; bring him on," said Dempsey.

Kearns declared he would be a lot more excited if he thought there was a possibility for a Dempsey-Wills fight in New York and there-

AWAKENED BY CLUMSY THIEF

There's a Whole Pack of Those 'Lone Wolves'

Providence, March 7.—A "Lone Wolf" made two attempts to enter homes in the North End, today, this bringing the total of "Lone Wolves" up to the point where pretty soon they'll be forced to race for a copyright on the name.

Alarm and Mary Barry, nurses in their home at No. 22
Alma street, were awakened by noise and discovered a visitor endeavoring to reach the window. He fled through back yards.

A short time later, Morris Sherman of No. 67 Polin street, awoke to find a man stealthily
raising Sherman's window while standing on a stool. This burglar intruder fled also.

MISSING FIANCE S RUM SHIP 'CAPTIVE'

Emerson L. Sturgis, the "gallant Southerner" who fitted Miss Bertha
F. Niles of No. 137 Lebanon street, Malden, on the night scheduled for his wedding, to a prisoner on Rum Row, according to an anonymous letter received in Malden today.

Sturgis and Miss Niles, a young dancing teacher, were to have been married March 3. Scores of friends of the young woman had gathered for the ceremony, but when the hour arrived the bridegroom was missing.
He was last seen a few hours before when he was going to dress for the wedding.

The letter, received in Malden and headed "Black Island, March 4, 1925 24-Mile Limit, Rum Row," follows:
"My, Emerson L. Sturgis is our prisoner. He will be well taken care of, but he knows too much to suit us now. I am sending this in to New London by one of our boys."

The letter was postmarked at
New London, March 6, at 5:30 p. m.
It was inscribed on ordinary lined paper, devoid of watermark.
In other words of identification, Mrs. Niles was unable to identify the handwriting, as she said she never saw that of her daughter's suitor. Miss Niles was said to be still waiting friends and could not be reached.

Sturgis, in an advent six weeks
earlier, had displayed the dancing teacher's childhood sweetheart in her affection.

Sturgis claimed Watchragoon,
Va., as his home, where, he said,
his wealthy family resided.

RECORD CROWD SEES AUTO SHOW OPEN

The biggest, busiest and best automobile show in the history of Boston opened with a record-breaking crowd in attendance at Mechanics Building today.

Inspired by perfect spring weather,
with its promise of delightful days to come, thousands of motor enthusiasts thronged the building to gaze at the latest refinements of the automotive engineers' art, together with hundreds of accessories.

It is the twenty-third Annual Boston Automobile Show, and there are no wowed cars on display than in any previous show this year in the entire country.

There are fifty-one exhibits of motor cars, including every new type shown at the New York and Chicago shows, as well as a second who have not previously been displayed.

With only one or two exceptions, every established manufacturer of motor cars in the country is exhib-ing.

Although handicapped for time, Manager Chester I. Campbell, had everything in readiness at the official opening hour of 1 o'clock. For a week a small army of workmen has been busy preparing the interior of the building. For several days past exhibitors have been installing their displays, but the last were rolled in last night, and

PRIEST IS BURNED ALIVE AT STAKE IN UKRAINE

Kiev, Ukraine, March 7 (A.P.)— Father Androsovich, a Polish Catholic priest, has been burned alive in the town of Jitomir, near here. The authorities allege that his assaults were agents of the Polish secret police.

The murders poured kerosene over the priest's body and then ignited it, any advice describing the crime.

GENERAL MITCHELL NOW FACES THREAT OF COURT MARTIAL

Washington, March 7.—Although silence was maintained at the War Department today, strong rumors were current in army circles that Brigadier-General William Mitchell, demoted assistant chief of air service, is to be subjected to still further punishment, for his spectacular criticism of aircraft conditions.

Charges of insubordination may be preferred, it was intimated, and these would bring him before a court martial.

The failure of the War Department to announce a new assignment for the general, after his re-

WIDOW IN THOMPSON DEATH HOAX SOUGHT

A nation-wide search was started today for Mrs. Lester Thompson, erstwhile sister of the Copley Plaza, and self-styled widow of a popular athlete of the Ringling Brothers circuit, who has been discovered alive and well in Portland, Ore.

Reverend friends of the bejeweled "mystery widow" are an anxious to find her as the police, and are existing in the hunt.

In face of the expose printed in the Boston Evening American yesterday, proving that the man she pretended to mourn as dead and cremated in emphatically alive, even the most trusting of her acquaintances do not know what to think.

They are hoping against hope that the thing will turn out to be nothing more serious than a hoax, but Continued on Page 5, Column 6.

EDISON'S SON WINS CAMBRIDGE GIRL

Marriage intentions were filed today in Cambridge by Theodore Miller Edison, the youngest son of Thomas A. Edison, inventor, and Miss Anna Maria Osterhout, daughter of one of Harvard's ablest biologists.

Young Edison is twenty-six years old, and a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Miss Osterhout is twenty-three, and a graduate of Vassar.

The girl is the daughter of Professor and Mrs. Winthrop T. Osterhout, chairman of the department of biology at Harvard, and lives with her parents at No. 49 Buckingham street, Cambridge.

They will be married in the Appleton Chapel at Harvard some time in April, probably early in the month.

The romance of the biologist's daughter and the inventor's son is proof that not even the most scientifically reared young persons are proof against Cupid's insidious attacks.

In the first place, Miss Osterhout did not start out to life to be a Mrs. Edison at all. Since she was old enough to reason, it has been her ambition to be a doctor, and she was preparing for a course at Johns Hopkins when she met young Edison, then an M. J. T. student, at a party in Cambridge.

VERY LATEST NEWS

LONE WOLF SUSPECT HELD
Joseph Gagnon, 26, of Southbridge, was arrested in that town today for attacks on women, and because his description tallies closely with that of Boston's recent "Lone Wolf" Police Inspectors Dorsey and Augustus were sent to Southbridge to look him over. Gagnon was captured in a Southbridge poolroom after one of his victims had recognized him on the street. He confessed to three of the five attacks, although he was identified by all five of the women.
